You CAN Print Your Own Invitations Using Your Computer & Printer!

For someone who has never printed on anything other than a standard-sized sheet of white office paper, printing your own invitations might seem overwhelming. But we're here to assure you that printing on LCI's specialty paper is actually quite simple. We'll walk you through the steps:

- 1 Load the invitation into the printer
- 2 Create a Microsoft Word template
- 3 Set your printer settings to recognize the invitation

Materials: Blank invitations, a page layout or word processing program like Microsoft Word, Inkjet or Laser printer

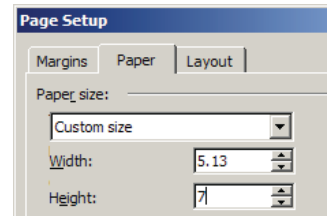

Load the invitation into the printer and adjust the print guide(s) so that the guide rests flush against the edge of the card.

For this tutorial, we will use LCI Paper's popular A7 Invitation Card which measures 5 1/8 x 7 inches (T7C_FC) and a Canon i950 Inkjet printer. You can use any home inkjet or laser printer.

Open Microsoft Word and create a new document. Now we need to change the document's dimensions to match the size of the invitation. Access the Page Setup dialog box by clicking File, then Page Setup.

Click the Paper tab. Under Paper size, scroll down and select Custom size. Enter a new width and height of 5.13 by 7 to match the size of the invitation.

Now you can type in your invitation wording, or adapt the sample wording that LCI Paper provides on our web site. Hint: Use LCI's invitation wording resource: www.lcipaper.com/TipWord.shtml

This is your chance to show your creativity, so choose a suitable font, wording, and format to express the sentiment you want to convey.

Within Word, access your printer settings by clicking File, then Print. A Print dialog box will appear. Under the Printer dropdown menu, make sure your printer is selected. Click on the Properties button to bring up your printer driver's dialog box.

Your particular printer's software will look slightly different. For the Media (Paper) Type, select the setting that best matches the thickness of the card stock you're printing on.

Here's the important part. You need to communicate to the printer the size of the invitation that you're printing. Click the Paper Setup tab and look at the Page Size dropdown menu. Choose Custom (User Defined) and input 5.13 by 7.

That's it! You can click the OK button in the printer driver software, and then finish the printing sequence by clicking OK in the Print dialog box.

You've just created an elegant and professional wedding invitation. Your guests will be amazed that you were able to print your own invitations at home!
